February 1 will mark the first day of operation of the Modern Care Convalescent and Nursing Home, located at 1500 West Walnut street. The new home utilizes the most recent medical and social studies, and is a completely fire-proof structure. Photo shows interior of one of the attractive larger rooms.

The home is located all on one floor and has a capacity of 40 beds. While the design achieves hospital-like structural efficiency, the patients enjoy the familiarity of private lodgings. A skillful combination of such hospital features as nurses station, drug-room, and nurses' call system, with the spacious colorful rooms and wall to wall windows insures this effect. Hand rails on both sides of the 170 foot long hallway provide safety and a natural medium for rehabilitation.

The patients' rooms are in light, cheerful pastels of blue, pink, and green and have built in wardrobes and dressers of birch. Two rooms are connected by a large lavatory built for comfort and safety. White marble window sills on the north side of the building lend an air of special beauty and durability to the rooms. The building is electrically heated with individual controls in each room.

The pink and oatmeal ceramic tile bathrooms are large and designed specifically for the use of the incapacitated. Wheel-in showers, special shower chairs, foot care baths, elevated toilets and therapy tubs are the main features of both the mens' and the ladies bathrooms.

A special solarium with wall to wall hard rubber carpeting in tur-quoise invites the patients to inormal gatherings and recreational activities. Television and telephones are included in each room. A large patio and spacious grounds provide many possibilities or out-door activities.

Severely incapacitated patients equiring medical attention and nursing care have available the services of registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, and male and female aides.

For those who require energetic rehabilitation by means of physical therapy, the services of a regstered physical therapist are available. A well equipped physical therapy room is located within the administration building. The administration building also contains a doctor's office in the event an emergency, medical treatment is immediately available.

The dietary department will pre-pare tasty loods according to any special needs of the patient. A stainless steel kitchen will be operated by a competent staff.

A drug room, under the supervision of a registered pharmacist, Murphysboro facilitates the smooth and safe administration of drugs. Barber and beautician services are avail-Girl To Wed able as desired. The Home is owned and operat-

ENGLISH LIKE KICKS

NEW YORK (A) - Edward Padula reports why English audiences prefer some Broadway shows to others. "They look up when we kick ourselves around a little," says Padula after an inspection tour of his London shows. His research convinced the producer of "Bye Bye Birdie" that the White Way musical should do great in the West End, and arrangements for a company there are now being developed.

Five Stars For Ike

(From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

The United States would show a proper sense of gratitude to the architect of our World War II victory in Europe if Congress restored his fivestar rank to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After World War II. Congress passed a law that retained all five-star Generals and Admirals on active duty, as long as they lived. With the rank goes a five-star general's pay, and the right to two military aids and office space in the Pentagon.

Gen. Eisenhower willingly gave up his rank and the perquisites that go with it, when he ran for President. This was a great personal sacrifice, since he is justly proud of the uniform he wore and his military record.

It was also a voluntary sacrifice. for there was no legal requirement to do so. But Mr. Eisenhower's deep devotion to the principle that the military must shun politics, and always be subordinate to the civil government, led him to make that decision.

Now that he is out of the White House, a grateful nation could give him no better parting gift than the restoration of his five-star rank.

There is reluctance on the part of some members of the Congress to do so because, as a retired President, he will also draw a pension. Mr. Eisenhower has indicated that he would gladly forego his presidential pension to get his General's stars.

The Globe-Democrat believes this would set a bad precedent. All our Presidents, rich or poor, drawing Army pay or social security, should be granted a pension by the people as an expression of gratitude for their services. This is comparable to to the pension conferred on those whose gallantry has won for them the Congressional Medal of Honor.

It would be humiliating to our ex-Presidents if only those who came out of the White House penniless received a presidential pension. This would be equivalent to making them take a "pauper's oath" and would completely distort the reasons for which a grateful nation set up the presidential pensions.

Mr. Eisenhower has given dedicated service to his nation in war and peace. His country could reward him no better than by giving back his permanent five-star rank now worn by only three other commanders of World War II: Generals Douglas MacArthur and Omar Bradley and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. Congress should restore him to that select and honored military company.

Stout Hearts

For most persons, the devastating earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and tidal waves in Chile in May of last year have faded into history, but for that stricken land the full impact is still being assessed.

Recent figures show nearly 10,000 persons killed, two million homes destroyed and nearly half the cultivated land affected. Losses have reached 500 million dollars. Nearly 5 per cent of the country's productive wealth was wiped

On the cheerful side, however, is the rapid comeback achieved by the government. The country is well along on its plans to check inflation and achieve economic stability. Chile was jolted, but not K.O'd.

School District 117 Community News

January 1961 has been designated Courtesy Campaign Month at Franklin School in Jacksonville.

Special attention is being paid to manners while students are in the cafeteria and at play, as well as in classroom situations.

Student Council members and faculty who launched the campaign, report improvement in obvious aspects of politeness. It is hoped long-term improvement will also result, and a deeper concept of consideration for and kindness to others will be apparent.

Education does pay. According to the Institute of Life Insurance, a man with a grade school education has a prospective lifetime income of $178,000.00. The average high school graduate can expect to earn $243,000.00. A college degree is worth at least $100,000.00 as its holder may earn $347,000.00. The Institute concludes that a college education more than makes up for the cost and time invested.

with Elgin Baylor, a writhing coil of six feet, five inches, taking on the imposing seven feet of Wilt Chamberlain.

Baylor had the ball. As he power drove for the basket, Wilt the Stilt stretched out his full length to meet the charge. Baylor went right over him, despite the height disparity, and stuffed the ball in the basket.

"If Chamberlain," recalled Referee Norm Drucker with a shudder, had gotten in the way, Elgin would have stuffed him through the

A tremendous admiration society for the versatile Los Angeles Laker is sweeping through professional basketball. Not that Elgin needs any particular introduction, but in this, his third season in professional basketball, he has achieved a status that doesn't normally accrue to a guy who stands almost as close to the ground as the rest of us.

Despite the Chamberlains and Bob Pettits, you can call him number one man in the National Basketball Association. Like the second quarter, and won going the 500 mark when they conquered and 6-7, 215-pound John Tully. in that one-on-one spot, he's risen above them.

The Lakers, struggling to get a foothold in the Far West after the dissipation of their niche in Minneapolis, need a name - and Elgin is it.

IN LOS ANGELES THERE are frequent requests for players, trances before civic and club groups. Nine out of 10 ask for while Bottom was high for the appearances before civic and club groups. Nine out of 10 ask for Eigin, reserved, slow-talking, soft spoken but nevertheless articulate in his grasp of basketball and his role in it.

The impulse would be to say that the switch to Los Angeles, the stimulus of new environment, has propelled the increased status of the Laker.

"I would be the same any place," he shrugs. "You're a ballplayer. You get paid to produce, and you only play the best you can,

What's happened to Baylor has steadily increased his scoring through three seasons until he now averages 33 points an outing. This has resulted in gasp-evoking plays like the one in a nationally telecast game from the new Los Angeles Arena in which Baylor simply elimbed over and drove through three giants to whip the ball through the basket.

"I know the players better," he explains, "and what I can do. I used to prefer to drive all the time, but now I've improved my outside shot to where they can't drop off on me."

THE LOS ANGELES VISTA, in fact, has been a detriment. "It's warmer," he says. "I find I get tired. We haven't playe many games at home and I had trouble at first adjusting to the court The Lakers in their new home have a new coach, Fred Schaus, who skipped from college ball at West Virginia.

"The only thing I had to do with him," says Fred, "is put his in the pattern of the rest of the club. He's a complete player. He mean, too. You got to be mean, too. You got to be mean in thi league. Big guys are shy by natural character because of the physical difference. It's tough to get them to be aggressive. You don have to worry about Elgin."

There's an unwritten law among the pros that you don't tunnel a man who's driving in the air for the basket, that is, run under him and chop him like a scythe. It happened however, to Baylor in a game against Detroit. Elgin, who seldom displays any emotion, dusted himself off the floor and drew his right fist back. The Piston quickly got lost.

It's tough enough for players to hold Elgin Baylor in check Arough normal devices, without begging for trouble by crossing him. Tallula 8 17 16

Abruptly, Mrs. Stitt held out her hand. "Till take that and jet rid of it." Retrieving the envelope from Blanche's lapp, she folded it deftly over upon itself and jammed it into her itself and jammed it into her pocket.

Blanche looked down, shielding her eyes from Mrs. Stitts gaze, afraid she might reveal the fear that had suddenly come alive inside her. Jane is my sister, she told herself sternly, she has taken care of me and stayed with me and protected me all these years, honey, your own flesh and protected me all these years, honey, your own flesh and protected me all the see you get it right in the neck."

The words echoed suddenly into her mind from far, far back in the past. It was Martin Stagg who had said them ther.

THE BIG ROLE—Cliff Robertson works while he waits for the big time role to come his way. In the meantime, he's striving, in his words, to "make lousy roles look good." His work in "The Naked and the Dead" and his new film, "The Big Show," mark him as an actor going places. Glasgow Resident Buys Overton Home, Property GLASGOW - The home and property of the late Mrs. Percie Overton, located in the east part of Glasgow, has been purchased y George Leitze, local resident. Mr. Leitze purchased the house and property from Mrs. Overton's daughter, Mrs. Alene Sanderson, executrix of her mother's estate. Ninetieth Birthday Mrs. Ada Blair, who observed her ninetieth birthday on Monday, Jan. 23, accompanied her nephew, William Cunningham to East St. Louis Sunday evening, where she will spend the week visiting her sister, Mrs. Floy Doyle. On Sunday she was guest of honor at a birthday dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Doyle, with the event also being in honor of Mr. Cunningham's birthday this week.

THE BIG ROLE-Cliff Robert-
